Subject: Microsoft case

Hello.

If you're keeping track of how the public feels about the proposed settlement with Microsoft, put me in the "not satisfied" category. It escapes me how a company can receive such a hand slap in light of their past conduct. Like the O.J. Simpson case, this settlement undermines my already shaky confidence in our system of justice. It only shows that if you have enough money and clout, you can break the law and then buy your way out of any legal repercussions.
